Silicon Valley Company Locates in the Greater Ann Arbor Region to Attract Top Tech Talent

THE CHALLENGE
Building a Scalable and Cost-Effective Model for IT Outsourcing

Many U.S.-based companies send their software development and other IT functions offshore to take advantage of cost savings. But all too often, quality and customer service suffer as a result. Nexient wanted to offer U.S. companies an alternative to offshoring that was more responsive and agile. Their business model focused on building a delivery center in the Midwest that could produce a better product than the offshore vendors, while remaining competitive in terms of cost.

WHAT WAS NEXIENT LOOKING FOR?
- The right city and state with robust economic development programs for new and existing businesses
- Strong support from local academic institutions to produce a steady stream of new tech talent
- Partnership and incentives to help minimize startup and operating costs, including training

STATE & LOCAL ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMS UTILIZED BY NEXIENT
- A2 Tech Trek
- Ann Arbor Tech Homecoming
- Ann Arbor SPARK Talent Portal
- MEDC Skilled Trades Training Funds
- Michigan Business Development Program Grant
- Ann Arbor Tech Talent Compensation Survey
- Talent Grant for Recruiting at Michigan Technological University
- Pure Michigan Business Connect
- Local Tax Abatement
- Site Selection Services
- Community Relocation Assistance
- Wage Data Analysis
THE SOLUTION

Locate a Delivery Center in the Greater Ann Arbor Region

As Nexient began to research possible locations for their first delivery center, Ann Arbor quickly rose to the top of the list. With top tech talent in high demand, Nexient recognized that in order to be competitive they would need access to a steady stream of new talent that could be trained in their business model. They teamed up with Ann Arbor SPARK to help navigate all the available programs and funding. Nexient participated in recruitment events like Tech Trek and Tech Homecoming. They also applied for skills training funds from the MEDC. Over time, they were able to build their talent pool and retain employees by offering opportunities for growth and professional development.

WHY ANN ARBOR?
- Broad population base to support scalability of operations
- Local universities rapidly producing new tech talent
- Quality of life to attract potential employees to relocate to the area
- Favorable cost structure
- Resources and incentives to stimulate growth

HOW ANN ARBOR SPARK ASSISTED NEXIENT’S TALENT DEVELOPMENT
